Dearest One,

I arrived here this morning after a restless night & to-day I had a number of invitations ~~to~~ for meals to a number of places. The Seattle Youngest Society appointed an Entertaining Committee to entertain me & I feel overhonored in what they are doing. I have been urged to stay a few days but I had to respectfully decline the invitations and want to return to Vancouver by first boat to read the message from my only flower.

You will find ^{that} the enclosed announcement which has just come to my hands, sets out the purpose of the meeting.

I have just snatched a few moments from my friends to write these few words.

You will hear ^{from me} again to-morrow.
In the meantime, Fair One, I bid you
Au Revoir.

Yours lovingly,
Morris
