Somewhere in France

October 3 1917

Dear Rachel:-

I received your letter of August 27 written in Seattle and although it was uninteresting and dry I thought I would draft a reply. I think the weather here in France is just about starting to get dull. Yesterday was good enough but there is no sun to-day.

I guess you at home had better get busy and get a good winter's supply of coal.

As usual
of course
