

March 10, 1933.

Darling,

I love you Ralph. Am so anxious to go to Victoria, I can't begin to tell you how much I want to go. But really feel that by March 22 I will have had a chance to buy some of the things I need, and do a lot of things that I want to do, and then I'll feel free to go visiting about.

Darling, please don't rent a place until I get there. I am afraid that you are going to get a place that we will not really be able to afford. $2500 per month is too much rent for us to pay, according to my budget, and if I spend four or five days in Victoria, I will surely have time to look around, and find something that will suit us, at less money. Always mercenary, aren't I? It will be such fun looking for an apartment. I really don't want to miss it.

Anita and I had lunch today at Love's. I always enjoy eating with Anita. She's so refreshing. So I had an enjoyable luncheon. Of course, you were the main topic of conversation.

Must stop now darling. I love you.
